So far ...and yet so near
(Orlando and Angelica's song)

Morning dew has touched my face
Dream cossets me in its embrace.
Another night without you here,
So far...and yet so near...

Nor aims, nor deeds that I have done
Firm up my heart when dusk is gone.
My yearning shimmers as a star,
So near...and yet so far...

Oh, Light, be merciful with me,
My anguish and desire see.
A dearest love to lose I fear.
So far...and yet so near...

Redeem me now from pain and hell
To touch her (his) trembling hand again,
To know what bliss and nearness are,
So near...and yet so far...

Divided soul
(Ruggiero's song)

A snake am I, who slithers in the tower.
Trees, where you sit, protect me in the moonlight.
Dark hills and plains, aid me to find my flower.

*A vision of delight is she, a lilac's wistful scent.
No rain or thunder could impede my ardor,
As swift as wind to touch her face it went.*

Amid my boastful foes, I see her shining bright.
All foolish eyes follow her gate with pride.
A goddess among maidens, they shudder at her sight.

*A vision of delight is she, a lilac's wistful scent.
No rain or thunder could impede my ardor,
As swift as wind to touch her face it went.*

Fear treads where daring knights reside.
Shadows besiege my heart in sorrow,
Tormenting love and vengeance, my heathen soul divide.

*A vision of delight is she, a lilac's wistful scent.
No rain or thunder could impede my ardor
As swift as wind to touch her face it went.*

Children's song

(sung by Pierre and Marie)

Little swallow, little swallow come back to me,
Come back to me and set my heart free.
Winter has left, spring is around
Nothing is left for the man on the ground.

Little bird, little bird come back to us.
My little brother, his name is Horace.
Mother has told him to stay on the tree.
I'll buy him clothes and keep him with me.

Dark rage

(Invaders' song)

Fire and rumble and rain
The fright is here to reign.
Ayeh...Ayeh...
Skulls on dead trees we'll hang,
Bleached bones we'll smolder again.
Ayeh ...Ayeh...

Here we are...to kill and conquer...
Here we are... to burn and thump
Here we are...
Ayeh...Ayeh..

Fire and rumble and rain
The storm is our friend in the plane.
Ayeh...Ayeh...
Those ravens are circling in search for a bite
The beacons are burning and never go out.
Ayeh...Ayeh...

Here we are...to kill and conquer...
Here we are... to burn and thump
Here we are...
Ayeh...Ayeh..
Ayeh...Ayeh...

Prayer to the moon

(Angelica and Marie's song)

Darksome sky and shining moon,
Bring my love to me back soon.
Handsome spirit of the night,
Work for me your magic rite.

Love is bright, love is near,
Love is here to stay.

Queen of Heaven, Queen of Dream,
Silver spreading in a stream.
Blessing holds she in her hands.
Bring him back before night ends.

Love is bright, love is near,
Love is here to stay.

Look in my mirror, what do you see,
Memoirs of laughter and my reverie.
Garlands of flowers, doors to my world.
Visions of beauty that Night Fairy holds.

*Love is bright, love is near,
